edy came into his life. One of his hind legs began to swell, and in three or four days he was disabled from duty.

The veterinary took him in hand at once, but made no progress. The limb swelled to three times its normal size, and no remedy was found to be of avail. More than a dozen veterinaries, soldier and citizen, had a look at the horse before a final verdict was pronounced, and all knew what the end would be, and all pitled him. At the
